

Aviation in itself is not inherently dangerous. But to an even greater degree than the sea, it is terribly unforgiving of any carelessness, incapacity, or neglect.

*Captain A.G. Lamplugh
British Aviation Insurance Group
London 1930*

Horse riding is inherently risky. And is probably more unforgiving of carelessness, incapacity, or neglect than aviation.

your name here