

justification on lecturer position

1 message

Sue Erich <erich@maine.edu>

Mon, Jul 16, 2018 at 4:38 PM

To: Robert Causey <rcausey@maine.edu>

Hi Robert,

I talked with George on the phone about justifying the lecturer position. He confirmed that 12 credits per semester is considered full time for a lecturer. He said suggesting 12 credits per semester (4 credits from AVS 145/146 each semester plus 1 credit from AVS 117 in the fall and AVS 396 (both semesters maybe) plus other suggested possible classes) is important. He also said we could put in some general language about the teaching load being reduced if the candidate takes on other duties, but not specifically mention hiring a program coordinator. George also suggested removing any mention of advising clubs since Fred considers that service that is part of regular faculty duties anyway.

Hope this helps. I'd be glad to talk with you about this more and/or read your response to Fred's memo if you would like an additional pair of eyes on it. Sue Sullivan would also be a good person to read it.

Best,
Sue

M. Susan Erich, Ph.D.
Professor of Plant and Soil Chemistry
School of Food and Agriculture
5763 Rogers Hall
University of Maine
Orono, ME 04469

(207) 581-2997

<http://umaine.edu/foodandagriculture/>